1 INTRODUCTION

Nowadays, sustainability is a key principle in the organization and management of worldwide events such as a Universal Exposition. Being aware of this – and in compliance with the 1994 BIE Resolution¹ – Expo Milano 2015, since the initial application phase for the Registration to the BIE, has adopted a series of engagements aimed at making sustainability “not just an objective, but part of the Event itself, an element for the involvement of all of Participants.”

One of the most relevant among these commitments refers to the adoption of a Green Procurement system aimed at orienting the behaviour of the Exposition suppliers toward the use of eco-compatible materials, the minimisation of resource consumption and the reduction of the environmental impact of their products and services. Green Procurement (GP) may be defined as a process whereby organizations seek to procure goods, services and works with a reduced environmental impact throughout their life cycle when compared to goods, services and works with the same primary function that would otherwise be procured.

At the European level, the GP approach has been endorsed in a number of EU policies and strategies concerning public procurement and recognising its potential to encourage a more sustainable use of natural resources and establish behavioural changes for sustainable consumption and production. Major studies aimed at identifying those products that have the greatest environmental impact throughout their life cycle, single out three areas as having the greatest impact: food and drink, private transport and housing.

Together, they are responsible for 70 to 80% of the environmental impact of consumption, and account for some 60% of consumption expenditure. The Food and drink area, in particular, causes 20 to 30% of the various environmental impacts of private consumption, and this increases to more than 50% for eutrophication². In such a context, GP can be a major driver for innovation, providing industry with real incentives for developing green products and services and stimulating the markets towards more sustainable solutions.

Within this framework – and in line with the belief that the event true sustainability can be achieved only with the engagement of the broadest range of actors involved – the Organizer has issued the present document with the aim of providing green procurement guidelines to the Participants.

By voluntarily adopting green procurement criteria, Expo Milano 2015 Participants will not only reduce the environmental impact of their activities, but also benefit from a number of opportunities:

- positive reputation and worldwide visibility – A greener Universal Exposition is a very visible demonstration of Participants' commitment to sustainability principles. Furthermore, the Universal Exposition is a unique opportunity to raise awareness among Participants, staff, service providers and visitors about the benefits of greener products, buildings, services etc., and hence foster sustainable behaviour and encourage people to make responsible decisions;
- spreading best practices and providing a positive legacy – By introducing new behaviours in procurement processes and showcasing the most innovative environmental technologies and solutions within the Expo Milano 2015, Participants can play a major role in disseminating best practices in the organization and management of sustainable events worldwide.

2 AIM OF THE GUIDELINES

These Guidelines deals with the voluntary inclusion of environmental criteria within the procurement processes of the Expo Milano 2015 Participants, as a key contribution to their commitment toward both the sustainability of the Event and the development and sharing of the Theme "Feeding the Planet, Energy for Life".

The Event organisational process requires the adoption of a detailed procurement system for contracting out the necessary works, as well as to supply the significant quantities of services, goods and materials that are needed. To properly manage the environmental aspects associated with these activities, the Organizer has committed itself to provide Participants in Expo Milano 2015 with information, suggestions and recommendations on how to include proper voluntary environmental criteria within the procurement policies and systems they are setting up for their participation in Expo Milano 2015.

All the proposed criteria are based on goods, services and technology solutions already available on European and international markets. For the success of the Exposition as a whole, the Organizer invites all Participants to adopt the greatest number of the GP criteria suggested, so as to reach the highest environmental performance within the Event. Expo Milano 2015 will provide top visibility to the GP solutions adopted by Participants on the Exhibition Site.

3 PROCUREMENT PROVISIONS WITHIN OTHER EXPO MILANO 2015 GUIDELINES

According to the Special Regulations issued by the Organizer, the Participants of Expo Milano 2015 shall comply with the Agreement between the Italian Republic and the BIE on the measures necessary to facilitate participation in the Exposition, as well as and with the General Regulations, the Special Regulations and all the relevant laws and ordinances of Italy.

When dealing with the Exposition preparatory and management activities, the Organizer itself has to respect a number of prescriptions³. In order to comply with them, the Organizer has – when necessary and appropriate – included specific provisions in the set of documents delivered to Participants to support their participation in the Event (i.e. General Regulations, Special Regulations, supplementary instructions, thematic guidelines).

As some of these provisions directly affect procurement aspects, it is here useful to recall them, together with the Expo Milano 2015 documents addressing the specific themes, as reported in the table below. The compliance with these provisions goes beyond the scope of these Guidelines, which refers to the adoption of voluntary GP criteria only.

Finally, Participants have to comply with the provisions of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES) – as it is implemented in the EU through a set of Regulations known as the EU Wildlife Trade Regulations – and in particular with:

- the Council Regulation (EC) No 338/97 “on the protection of species of wild fauna and flora by regulating trade therein”, as amended by Commission Regulation (EC) No 2724/2000 of 30 November 2000;
- the Commission Regulation (EC) No 349/2003 of 25 February 2003 “suspending the introduction into the Community of specimens of certain species of wild fauna and flora”.

Adoption of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - reusable tableware or biodegradable and compostable tableware for the Exposition catering services, according to the UNI EN 13432:2002 standard; - food recovery initiatives; - draught beverage systems for mineral water and soft drinks. 	All these aspects are dealt within the "Expo Milano 2015 Food and Beverage Guidelines"⁴ to which the present Guidelines cross-refers.
Reduction of packaging materials, as relevant part of the Expo Milano 2015 wider strategy for the prevention of waste production, the maximization of waste recovery and the achievement of the highest percentage of waste separate collection.	These aspects are treated within the "Special Regulation No. 7 concerning Transportation, Customs Clearance and Handling of Goods".
Participants also have to take into account the obligations contained within the European Council Directive 2000/29/EC⁵ of 8 May 2000 "On protective measures against the introduction into the Community of organisms harmful to plants or plant products and against their spread within the Community". The Directive requires a specific phytosanitary certification for the introduction of plants and plants products into Member States, both from other Member States or Third Countries. Thus, Participants willing to include plants or plant products within the items they will exhibit and sell in their Exhibition Spaces⁶ (e.g. within their merchandising products), shall comply with the provisions of the Directive.	More specifications on this issue will be provided by the Organizer in the following two cross-reference guidelines: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • "Guidelines - Import of plants and plant products, for Construction and Set-up of Exhibition Space"; • "Guidelines on plants and plant products management during the event" (provisional title).

4 METHODOLOGY FOR A VOLUNTARY GREEN PROCUREMENT

4.1 Scope

In terms of sectors and product group categories, the scope of this Guidelines covers five categories of supplies for the participation in the Expo Milano 2015, producing a significant environmental footprint in their life-cycle:

1) Food and Beverage and Catering services – As Expo Milano 2015 is the first Universal Exposition dedicated to food and sustainability, the food and catering services is a fundamental category of supply within the procurement processes. Participants shall thus involve their suppliers in adopting environmentally friendly and responsible standards and tools in food and beverages purchasing, preparation, packaging and distribution.

2) Furniture – This category encompasses a broad product group that includes very different types of goods (indoor, e.g. chairs, tables, wardrobes, shelves and outdoor, e.g. pergolas, awnings, canopies) with very different uses, whose supply is essential for the setting up of the Exhibition Spaces.

3) Merchandising – The environmental impacts of this category may significantly vary, depending on the wide variety of possible items and goods licensed. At the same time, merchandise is a key “relationship-building” tool for a Universal Exposition, whose both symbolic valence and actual impact play a crucial role for the sustainability of the event. For these reasons, all products shall be representative of the Theme and in line with the vision and values of the Exposition (for further details see the Expo Milano 2015 Theme Guide). To guarantee the maximum adherence to the Theme, the Organizer strongly suggest to offer a variety of products that convey with the concept of food sustainability and sustainable development.

4) Packaging – A sound environmental vision for packaging is a core issue for Expo Milano 2015. This commitment implies the active involvement of all Participants as well as of their supply chains, which shall be encouraged to adopt the most advanced solutions within their packaging needs. The environmental criteria proposed for this category aim at limiting the production of packaging waste and promoting recycling, re-use and other forms of waste recovery, the final objective being the highest reduction of total waste volume.

5) Events organization – Expo Milano 2015 will host a number of theme-related events and meetings organized by Participants – both on and, probably, off the Expo Site – before and during the whole Exposition period. The proper environmental management of these initiatives substantially contributes to the success of the Event.

Please note that the criteria suggested is not an exhaustive list. For each category of supplies, or even for other categories, Participants can select and adopt additional green procurement criteria; in this case Participant should use the same approach proposed in the guidelines for the criteria suggested.

4.2 International references

Overall, the green procurement criteria hereby selected have been primarily developed on the basis of the European and the Italian legislation on Green Public Procurement⁸:

- the European Green Public Procurement Criteria
- the Italian GPP Environmental Minimum Requirements (“Criteri Ambientali Minimi”, CAMs)

whose basic concept relies on having clear, verifiable, justifiable and ambitious environmental criteria for the procurement of products and services, based on a life-cycle approach and scientific evidence base.

A key reference is also constituted by the *EU Ecolabel*⁹ scheme, whose criteria have been developed and agreed upon by scientists, NGOs and stakeholders to create a credible and reliable way to make environmentally responsible choices.

Other relevant methodological references issued by international organisations such as the United Nations Environment Programme – UNEP and the International Standards Organization - ISO have also been taken into account.

Finally, at the regional level, the Lombardy Region has signed a voluntary agreement aimed at promoting the adoption of green procurement criteria within its territory¹⁰. The contents of this agreement have been primarily considered with reference to the GP criteria elaborated targeted to the organization and management of communication events directly or indirectly related to Expo Milano 2015.

In Italy, the Ministry of the Environment has adopted its own GPP Action Plan by way of, inter alia, the development of specific GPP criteria in many different sectors, see:

For all categories, the procurement criteria selected in the present Guidelines refer to the environmental dimension of sustainability only, i.e. they only look at the environmental aspects of tendering and do not address the social and/or the economic impacts of the goods, services and works as objects of the Expo Participants' procurement processes. Few exceptions refer to criteria related to the certification of the responsible management of the activities carried out by providers.

4.3 Procurement Life-Cycle

At the general level, the inclusion of environmental criteria may relate to all stages of the procurement process, from supplier selection, technical specification, evaluation of suppliers, awarding of contracts, auditing and improving supplier performance and on-going contract management.

Whilst different Participants may have different procurement terminology, the procedures and stages in procurement cycles are often similar:

- definition of the object of the contract (subject matter) – Environmental criteria may be incorporated into the object of various types of contract in different ways. For example, in supply contracts, ecological criteria for the goods supplied may be expressly indicated (e.g. recycled paper for printers and photo copiers);
- candidate selection (selection criteria) – The candidate selection criteria in the call for bids may contain environmental aspects regarding the technical capabilities of the candidates. In this case, candidates are selected on the basis of the evidence they are able to provide to demonstrate their capacity to carry out their activities in an environmentally sound manner, e.g. evidence of the regular environmental training of their staff, or of specific environmental management measures which they routinely apply. A certified environmental management system (such as EMAS or ISO 14001) – if covering and attesting environmental management capacities as laid down in the selection criteria – shall be recognised as evidence of compliance;
- definition of technical specifications and contract performance clauses – Environmental criteria may affect the definition of the technical specifications of the contracts in two ways:
 - as technical standards - e.g. raw material characteristics, quality levels, production methods, etc. as contained in technical laws or regulations or industry standards – incorporated by requiring: I) the use of certain raw or basic materials having low environmental

- impact; II) specific production processes (e.g. organic foods in food services); III) eco-labels in product specifications;
- as functional and performance requisites including environmental components (e.g. energy consumption within use). Contract performance clauses may be included in the call for bids that specify the method of executing works in order to ensure environmental protection. Clauses may address, for example: materials delivery methods; environmental training of personnel; means of transportation; reduction in energy and water consumption during execution of work;
- Inclusion of award criteria – Environmental criteria can be incorporated in the assessment of the bids' quality as specific award criteria leading to the final choice of the supplier. For example, the possession of environmental certifications or any other pertinent environmentally friendly feature may constitute a distinctive rewarding "plus" for those contracts whose proper management of environmental aspects is important.

Within the voluntary approach proposed for the Expo Milano 2015, the Organizer suggests to integrate the environmental criteria in those phases of the contract awarding process being more effective in terms of environmental performance, e.g. via technical specifications criteria instead of award criteria, whenever possible and feasible.

4.4 Environmental Criteria

The voluntary environmental criteria suggested are broken down into two categories:

1. Key Criteria, addressing some of the most significant environmental impacts of each category of supplies considered. They are considered fundamental as their adoption can deeply affect the environmental performance of the Event. Within the communication and promotional activities designed for the Expo Milano 2015, the Organizer will implement initiatives aimed at valorising and giving maximum visibility to those Participants adopting these criteria, even on the basis of the number of criteria adopted;
2. Leading Criteria. Beside the Key ones, a second set of criteria is suggested. This category provides for a collection of GP best practices and solutions targeting those Participants who seek to maximize the opportunities to showcase their environmental excellence. Adequate visibility will also be given to the adoption of these criteria by 11: To be released in the next months.

Participants within the above mentioned initiatives. More details will be provided within the Guide “Events”¹¹.

Overall, these environmental criteria have been elaborated on the basis of the criteria foreseen by the methodological references adopted (EU GPP and Italian CAMs), and – whenever necessary and opportune – adapted in order to allow their application into the specific and unique context of the Universal Exposition. For example, being Expo Milano 2015 a Universal Exposition whose aim is the promotion and sharing of the different Participants’ interpretation of the food sustainability theme – as it is reflected in Countries’ cultural and historical identity and traditions – the environmental criteria related to the food and beverage category of supplies do not include criteria related to short distribution chains.

Still, as regards the furniture category, it neither include antique and traditional furniture, nor particular furniture which may be enclosed in Participants’ attractions and/or installations.

The criteria are expressed – whenever possible – via technical key environmental performance indicators of the products and services covered. They have been elaborated in order to be easy to understand and use.

Please note that the criteria suggested is not an exhaustive list. For each category of supplies, or even for other categories, Participants can select and adopt additional green procurement criteria; in this case the Organizer will evaluate and reward their contribute to the green procurement system of the Event.

4.5 How to read the Guidelines

The document is organized as follows:

- Each chapter is dedicated to a specific category of supply: Food and beverage and catering services, Furniture, Merchandising, Packaging and Events organisation. As packaging is a cross-referring topic, the chapters focused on the other supplies also include packaging criteria specific of each category (e.g. criteria addressing the primary packaging of food products). In order to facilitate the use of the Guidelines, the chapter dedicated to Packaging nevertheless recall them all.
- In each chapter, a selection of Key criteria and Leading criteria is suggested. For each criterion:
 - a proposal of formulation is provided, followed by a proposal of verification that Participants can use to check the compliance of their suppliers to each specific provision;

VERIFICATION:

- an indication of the different references at the basis of both the formulation and the verification proposals of the criterion is also provided;
 - according to the scheme above:
- A specific chapter then addresses the modalities adopted by the Organizer in order to verify the commitment of the Participants as regards their green procurement practices as suggested in these Guidelines. To this end, a facsimile of the Application form that Participants have to fill in within the submission of their Exhibition Project is provided.
 - Finally, the Annex provides a complete list of the proposed criteria, whereas the References includes the main methodological sources used to develop the Guidelines.

The Organizer and IEFE Università Bocconi accept no responsibility or liability for any damages or costs of any type arising out of or in any way connected with the use of the Guidelines. Data and information are provided for information purposes only, and are not intended for trading purposes.

5 FOOD AND BEVERAGE AND CATERING CRITERIA

The scope of this category refers both to the direct procurement of Food & Beverage (F&B) by Participants and their procurement of catering services for the Event, where the procurement of F&B is normally included as part of the catering service. As regards Food, the criteria mainly address organic production methods and packaging waste. For catering services, the criteria focus in addition on waste minimisation and selective collection, as well as on the use of cleaning products, kitchen equipment, etc.

The criteria proposed are broken down into two sub-categories:

- 1.1. F&B and Catering criteria, related to the environmental characteristics of: I) the food and beverages served within the catering services of Expo Milano 2015 and/or sold within the Exposition; II) the services provided;
- 1.2. F&B Packaging criteria, related to the environmental characteristics of the packaging of the food and beverages sold and/or served within the catering services of Expo Milano 2015.

6 FURNITURE CRITERIA

Furniture is a broad product group that encompasses very different types of furniture (chairs, tables, wardrobes, shelves, etc.) with very different uses. The proposed criteria both refer to outdoor and indoor furniture and focus on the materials which are most typically used in the production of furniture: wood and wood-based materials, metals, plastics, padding and textiles.

Criteria are also suggested for coating and adhesives/glues used in the assembly of the product and for packaging. Participants should take into account that the criteria suggested in this category could be inapplicable for antique and traditional furniture, as well as for particular furniture enclosed in Participants' attractions and/or installations.

Overall, the criteria have been divided into three sub-categories:

- 1.1. Materials;
- 1.2. Packaging;
- 1.3. Products.

7 MERCHANDISING CRITERIA

Since no direct methodological reference (both national and international) is given for merchandising, the criteria proposed within this category have been elaborated on the basis of a review of a number of events comparable to Expo Milano 2015 in terms of dimensions, complexity and international visibility.

The criteria have been divided into three sub-categories:

- 1.1. Packaging;
- 1.2. Manufacturers;
- 1.3. Products.

It is relevant to note that, as merchandising comprises a wide variety of possible items and goods, these latter may also fall within other categories, and therefore be suitable for the application of these categories' corresponding criteria (e.g. a chair, as a merchandising item, falls both into the Merchandising and Furniture categories). Secondly, as regards, the 1.1) Packaging subcategory, Participants are invited to bear in mind the specifications provided within Section 3 and Section 8 of the present Guidelines, as regards in particular the legislative framework which rules packaging-related issues. Finally, as previously highlighted (see paragraph 4.1), the Organizer emphasizes that all products that will be exhibited and/or sold within Expo Milano 2015 shall be representative of the food sustainability Theme and in line with the vision and values of the Exposition.

8 PACKAGING CRITERIA

As anticipated, the sustainability of packaging is a core issue for Expo Milano 2015. This commitment implies the active involvement of all Participants as well as of their supply chains, which shall be encouraged to adopt the most advanced solutions within their packaging needs. Still, Participants have to bear in mind that – beyond the possibility to adopt voluntary GP criteria within their procurement processes – the scope of this category is well regulated, both at the European and at the Italian national level.

The main legislative reference is represented by the European Directive 94/62/EC on packaging and packaging waste, whose primary goal is the harmonisation of national measures in order to prevent or reduce the impact of packaging and packaging waste on the environment. The Directive contains provisions on the prevention of packaging waste, on the re-use of packaging and on the recovery and recycling of packaging waste. It has been entirely recognized by the Italian legislation on packaging and packaging waste.

The environmental criteria proposed for this category aim at limiting the production of packaging waste and promoting recycling, re-use and other forms of waste recovery, the final objective being the highest reduction of total waste volume of Expo Milano 2015.

9 EVENT MANAGEMENT CRITERIA

This chapter addresses the adoption of Green Procurement Criteria within the Theme-related events and meetings that will be organized and managed by Participants – both on and off the Expo Site – before and during the whole Exposition period.

Regardless of their size, the proper environmental management of these initiatives can in fact contribute to the success of the Event. As a considerable part of organizing an event involves procuring goods and services, Participants should include green criteria in the bids and in the following contracts targeted to their event service providers. For all event purchases, the starting point should be to consider if the product or service is essential to delivering the visitor experience. In many cases, it will be possible to deliver the same or better experience using less material. Where items are essential, Participants should consider whether they can be hired in or reused from previous events, rather than buying new. If not, the following criteria procuring products and services should be applied. They have been divided into three sub-categories:

- 1.1. Event organization and management (general);
- 1.2. Event promotional materials;
- 1.3. Event catering.

10 VERIFICATION BY THE ORGANIZER

The adoption of the green procurement criteria by Participants will be first communicated to the Organizer within the documents they will deliver as part of the submission of their Exhibition Project (Section Exhibition Plan – Sustainability). To this end, Participants will be asked to fill in a specific “Green Procurement Form” (as the facsimile Application form illustrated here below), or to provide other documentation with equivalent appropriate evidence addressing the implementation of the criteria adopted.

Please note that for each category of supplies, or even for other categories, Participants can add other green procurement criteria, providing the corresponding related information to the Organizer.

On the basis of the information provided, the Organizer, being in accord with the BIE, will provide adequate visibility to the GP initiative adopted by each Participant. Detailed information on the visibility system will be provided by the Organizer.

Please note that, during the Event, the Organizer will involve the Participants in the verification of the actual level of implementation of the GP criteria, as declared in the illustrated Application Form. If the information provided and the level of compliance declared by a Participant within the form will not correspond to the green procurement practices actually implemented during the Event, the Organizer will proportionally reduce the level of visibility acknowledged to the Participant.

The Organizer will support Participants’ adoption of the GP criteria suggested in this Guidelines by providing all the possible additional information they could need.

In case of doubt or if you need any kind of help or assistance, please contact the Organizer at the following email address: GPsustainability@expo2015.org 31: Participants should fill in this field by providing a proper indication of the level of implementation of the criterion compared with the overall procurement of the corresponding category of supply. The "percentage on the procurement value of the category" could be a proper measurement applicable to most criteria, whereas in some cases the formulation of the criterion already contains a quantification of the GP commitment for that specific category (e.g. in the case of the purchase of a certain percentage of organic products).
